

Tennis Court Cleaning

Dirt mold, mildew and algae can form on a tennis court. This dirty surface poses a potential safety hazard to players, as one could slip and fall during a swing. To maintain your court properly you need to keep it clean. Playing on a clean court will increase playability, as the players will have maximum traction. So, not only is your clean court safer, but you'll also have a better game! Another reason tennis court cleaning is so important is the high maintenance cost if the court is left unclean for extended period of time. If the surface deteriorates so much that you can't see the lines, and cracks start to appear, your cost for repairing the area will be extremely high. For instance, according Fast-Dry Courts, the cost of resurfacing a green clay court can run between $1,500 to $5,000, and sometimes even more (for reference note see <http://www.fast-dry.com/faq.php>). The more low areas and cracks there are, the higher the price will be. So, keeping your tennis court well maintained is a great way to prevent costly repair bills in the future.
